Foghorn Requiem
performance

Lise Autogena and Joshua Portway
in collaboration with composer Orlando Gough

On June 22nd 2013, more than 50 ships gathered on the North Sea to perform an ambitious musical score, marking the disappearance of the sound of the foghorn from the UK's coastal landscape.

The September Split Curatorial Division played an edit of the performance, recorded and edited by Geoff Sample at the opening and also two times a day during the exhibition.
We played it loud!
